A Message to Europe

La Follette News

Coolidge's Protest

Able Young Frenchmen

Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane

THIS NATION should send a plain message to those gentlemen in Geneva not only discussing the advisability of making immigration laws of the United States the business of Japan and of European powers. Somebody, for the United States, preferably Mr. Coolidge, might send a polite note to the Geneva gentlemen as follows: "When this was a small nation we enforced the Monroe Doctrine, which warned Europe to keep hands off the two American continents."

"We are 113,000,000 people now, not exactly poverty-stricken, and we think we can prevent Japan, with or without the help of Europe, from dictating our internal laws, including immigration laws."

TO THAT might be added: "And what's more, we haven't a high opinion of nations that were only recently on their knees borrowing our money, which they haven't paid, and are now discussing under what conditions they would back up Asia in an aggressive war on the United States."

THAT KIND of message ought to go across the ocean.

Likely for this nation, which seems better at lending money than upholding its own rights, we have a defender in Australia. That nation, with a population about as big as that of New York city, living under the shadow of Japan and all the hundreds of millions in Asia, notifies the League, Japan and everybody else that she, Australia, with her small population, and a total wealth that the United States could pay about once a year, will undertake to manage her own internal affairs and doesn't want any advice.

Perhaps somebody in the United States will develop a little of the Australian spirit.

THE POLITICAL NEWS seems to be all La Follette news.

Hiram Johnson, by far the most powerful man in California, denounces the decision keeping La Follette electors off the ballot in a way that will greatly increase La Follette's vote in California. It is even predicted that Johnson will come out for La Follette and campaign for him as a protest against the judicial decision that the people of California must vote exclusively for men selected by the bosses.

A NOTHER report says that John Kenyon, formerly United States Senator, put on the bench by Harding, and one of the most earnest men in public life, will get off the bench and campaign for La Follette. That would be another blow to the old parties, not yet awake to the fact that one of the old parties will have to do, or both the old parties must combine hereafter to fight a powerful new party.

Another rumor predicts that Senator Norris, of Nebraska, sincere and able man, will come out for La Follette. And then there is Brookhart. Even Republicans admit that he will carry his State by 200,000.

How the Republicans can hope to carry Iowa, if Brookhart gets the State by 200,000, is not easily understood.

LOUISIANA follows California by refusing La Follette electors a place on the ballot. President Coolidge, much to his credit, expresses regret that any American should be forbidden to vote for the man of his choice. The President's statement will be applauded by 99 per cent. of American voters.

THIS SON of Professor Painlevé, a Frenchman, only twenty-one years old, is the youngest man ever listened to by the French Academy of Sciences. No nation except France in the production of serious minded, capable young students interested in science and profoundly learned.

3 HOLDUPS; BANDITS ESCAPE

Rent Collector Badly Beaten,
$150 Taken; Bakery Men
Face Pistol Points

Greater Boston bureau reports checked up three successful jobs today.

At No. 57 Devon street, South End, they waylaid Maurice Lynch, a rent collector of No. 41 Bedford street, Back Bay. They beat him up with milk bottles and took $150.

Lynch was found unconscious by tenants half an hour later, and was taken to the City Hospital in a critical condition.

In Cambridge at the corner of Portland and Albany streets a pair of holdup men, masked and with revolvers, prepared to rob Ward Fish Company employees of their pay.

They held up three employees, but secured a very meagre haul from only one of them—William Dubaut of No. 36 Tufts street, Somerville, who handed over $27, Peter Jankovic, of No. 11 North street, Cambridge, had no money on him, and his loss was only fifteen cents. Frank Delwood, of No. 84 Fifth street, eluded the gunmen and escaped with his pay.

At an earlier holdup John E. Nelson, a Harvard law student, lost a watch valued at an armed and masked gunman who he at first believed to be a fellow student, rescued a job.

Nelson followed the man out of the entry of Winthrop Hall at No. 32 Brattle street where the holdup took place, but discovered it was no joke when the bandit fired a shot at him. He was uninjured.

Another rumor predicts that Senator Norris, of Nebraska, sincere and able man, will come out for La Follette. And then there is Brookhart. Even Republicans admit that he will carry his State by 200,000.

How the Republicans can hope to carry Iowa, if Brookhart gets the State by 200,000, is not easily understood.

Gland Expert Will Exhibit Woman as Proof of Skill

New York, Oct. 1.—America is soon to hear Dr. Serge Voronoff's own story of how he rejuvenates the aged with monkey glands.

But better than the lectures of the noted surgeon will be the American woman who will accompany the savant to this country as a living example of how monkey glands can be transplanted to a woman as well as to a man.

EAST BOSTON'S GIRLS STRONG FOR DAVIS

Reporters of the Boston American at work upon the straw battle being taken by the Hearst newspaper respect that about one voter in every ten they approach has yet to pick the Presidential candidate he will vote for in November.

"Time and time again," one of the better informed reporters, I am not with the response, "to tell you the truth, I do not really know yet for whom I shall vote."

"In some cases, I have no doubt, this has been a polite method of evasion, but in the majority of instances, I believe it to have been an honest answer. I am struck by the fact that the voters show a desire to discuss the candidates with me."

"My impression, after being on the job five of the seven days, is that the campaigning which will be done between now and Election Day (Continued on Page 1, Column 2)

FRANKS TRIAL JUDGE VICTIM OF NERVES

Cavely Suffered Breakdown on Giving Decision on Loeb and Leopold

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Judge John H. Cavely, who on September 10 sentenced Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., to imprisonment for the murder of Robert Frank, was stricken with a nervous breakdown immediately after the close of the trial, but is much improved in a hospital here, former Judge C. A. McDonald announced today in giving the verdict.

"That the judge had been in a hospital for that he had had a breakdown was unknown to his many intimate friends, Judge McDonald said. "Not even his most intimate friends were aware of the judge's breakdown, and they actually believed that he had gone away for a rest as had been announced," said Judge McDonald.

He became ill almost immediately after he had given his decision, and went to the hospital the next day. He was found to be suffering from high blood pressure and his physicians immediately ordered him to rest.

$500,000 Beer Plant Reduced to Junk by U. S. Agents

Pittsburgh, Oct. 1.—Under orders from the Federal District Court, prohibition agents today began the distribution of $500,000 worth of beer-making machinery of the Valley Beverage Company at Sutersville.

Sledgehammers and acetylene torches were applied to pumps, boilers and vats at the brewery.

The destroyed material later will be offered for sale at public auction as junk. The court order also called for the destruction of 2,245 barrels of beer and 20,000 pounds of malt and 28,000 pounds of other beer-making material.

GASOLINE AT LOWEST PRICE IN 10 YEARS

Atlantic Refining Company, Like Others, Cuts Tank Rate to 13 Cents

The Atlantic Refining Company today reduced the cost of the Gulf Refining Company and reduced the price of gasoline to 16 cents a gallon at filling stations and 13 cents a gallon at tank wagons. The order affects the New England district.

Quine was lower in New England today than at any time within the last ten years.

In 1915 a similar tank wagon price of 16 cents was reached. For a few weeks, late last year, 14½ cents was the prevailing price. The 13-cent low is a 7-cent drop from the peak price of 20 cents paid earlier this year.

Coincident with the announcement of the Atlantic Refining Company's reduction, word was received from Springfield that one of the big gasoline distributing companies there admitted it had received orders from its headquarters to discontinue the practice of making special price concessions to favored customers. This practice was revealed in a pointed report issued yesterday by the State Commission on the Necessaries of Life.

Publication of the commission's statement created much excitement and some bitterness among Springfield dealers not among the favored concessionaries.

Representatives of big business today denied that the drastic form which the new gasoline price was due to the commission's condemnation and describe it as caused by the laws of supply and demand.

MAN, 82, KILLED GOING TO GRAVE OF SISTER

Chicago, Oct. 1.—A desire to visit the grave of his sister in Buffalo, N. Y., cost the life of James Shea, eighty-two, of this town, who was killed by a trolley car in West 32d. The body was arrived at the home of his son, Daniel Shea of Elmhurst.

FIRE STATIONS COOLIDGE POLICE TO INSTRUCT FAVORITE IN ON SAFETY DEDHAM

Radio Talks and Special Addresses to Feature "Prevention Week"

National Fire Prevention Week, which begins Sunday, will be observed by special house at all fire stations for disseminating information to the public by radio talks, instruction in schools and addresses at meetings of societies and civic organizations, according to an announcement made today by Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Flynn. Residents of Boston will be given a chance at self-protection by the fire stations and will be asked to make an informal report to the authorities on blocks which will be distributed to school children. Suggestions for safety are embodied in the announcement. Some of these are:

Defective fires caused more than 15,000 deaths in the last year. Keep them clean and in repair.

If you have reason to suspect the gas is leaking, notify the gas company. Don't investigate yourself.

Clean all smoke pipes before winter. Have them cleaned by competent utility.

Walls, ceilings and partitions should be checked for fire hazards. If you find them in a bad condition, call a painter or electrician. If you find them in a bad condition, call a painter or electrician.

Open fires should be screened.

Black Satin Bags are done in gay colors with an old-fashioned tapestry stitch that resembles needlepoint.

Buffet Sets are tremendously popular this Fall, so there will be a wide variety to choose from; many inexpensive.

Hot Dish Pads embroidered in dainty colors or white on white linen are a very attractive novelty.

A Wide Checked Crib Spread of a soft linen with Mother Goose designs in the alternate squares is simple and most tempting for the nursery.

Lamp Shades—The materials (silks, linings, brads, fringes, ornaments and all the newest fashions) and free instruction in making.

Bed Spreads, crib spreads, lunch sets, cushions, holder sets for hot dishes, chair sets, scarfs, cloths, and everything pretty for babies—a first step toward planning large embroidered gifts, we suggest that you look them all over this week before the favorites are picked out.

GOSSIP OF BIG AND LITTLE POLITICIANS

At a Carter-Walsh-O'Brien rally in Lowell the other night some body made the mistake of calling upon Secretary Parker B. Murphy of the Lowell Trades and Labor Council, and introducing him with a speech in which the chairman told him that he was a member of the Lowell Trades and Labor Council, and introducing him with a speech in which the chairman told him that he was a member of the Lowell Trades and Labor Council.

Coolidge a Poor Third in Central South

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 1.—The Atlanta Georgian's presidential poll of the States of the Central South shows that while the South is holding its traditional Democratic solidarity, La Follette is pulling up to the position of a poor third.

AMOSKEAG OUT $2,951,131 IN OPERATING

Large Saving Through Wider
Use of Water Power,
Says Treasurer

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 1.—In his formal report today to the directors, F. C. Dunham, treasurer of the Amoskeag Mills, said the high price of cotton and the high cost of manufacturing had prevented any profit.

At no time during the past year, said, was it possible to purchase cotton and convert it into finished goods on a basis yielding the slightest profit.

A trial balance indicates that the payment of $1,484,000 for dividends, the net decrease in the company's assets is about $1,000,000. Only the forecast of retaining some of the surplus of better years in the past made a dividend payment possible.

The relation between the company and its employees continues to be amiable, in spite of the drastic curtailment of operation and the impossibility of continuing support save for a great number of years, 1925.

FEATURES OF REPORT.
The report continues:

"This report is one of the poorest, if not the poorest, ever presented for your consideration. These figures show that the period under discussion offers an excellent illustration of the restrictive effect of high prices for cotton and the high cost of manufacturing combined.

"I'm unable to tell you the amount anything which might encourage you as to an improvement of conditions in the immediate future. It would seem that so extended a period of unprofitable business must sooner or later draw to an end. The management, however, sees no such probability at present and would be satisfied if the mills could be run fairly full and pay a reasonable wage without a destructive loss.

"Every known economy consistent with safety and proper care of all property has been instituted and all unnecessary work discontinued.

MORE WATER POWER.
"Fortunately in the better years gone by, a reasonable surplus has been retained for just such times as these which enables a proper upkeep and has justified the board in making a division which otherwise would not have been possible.

"Since last year's meeting the new dam and power station have been completed and placed in operation. During the first six months of this year an average of 2,500 horsepower er, based upon 54 hours weekly, has developed from water alone. The maximum amount during the period was 3,744 horsepower, and the minimum 2,571 horsepower. Of this total horsepower the new power station produced an average of 16,810 horsepower, with a maximum of 22,515 horsepower and a minimum of 4,321 horsepower. The balance was made up by the old wheels in the canals.

"In connection with others located upon the Merrimack, flowage rights have been acquired and a new dam built at Merymeeting Pond, in New Durham, which will tend to help maintain a more even flow in the river.

"Some general scheme should be devised and eventually carried out by which the water during frosty periods can be stored back in the country and used in the drought of the summer months.

"The advance cost of fuel for steam makes it imperative to take advantage of this as well as all other opportunities for savings. If New England is to continue operation across the infinitely lower cost of manufacturing in other parts of the country."

WORK OF THE YEAR

The report showed 126,438,978 yards of cotton cloth and 7,740,225 yards of worsted cloth were manufactured in the year ending May 31. Sales for the same were 126,000,000 yards of cotton and 6,820,750 yards of the other. Loss in manufacturing this year was $2,813,131.22.

The plant and other assets of the company amount to $4,175,043.25. The following trustees were elected for three years: Charles E. Cudde, George P. Gardner, Frederick H. Sears, Jr. and George Wagoner.

WOMEN'S SOCIETIES TO HELP CHILD LABOR LAW

The State council of women's patriotic societies at their meeting today, voted to endorse and help support the child labor amendment to the Constitution of the United States. About ten representatives were present in the Chamber of Delegates attending the meeting. Miss Hattie Abrams, speaking of opposition to the child labor amendment, said:

"I know of one thing and several elements who are opposing this amendment in secret. They have stock in mills where child labor is employed."

MARION BROOKS BRIDE OF CAR SHOP OFFICIAL

Miss Marion Brooks of Hyde Park and Harold C. Chase, an official at the Amoskeag, were married here today by Rev. Edward A. Fisher in the rectory of the church of the Most Providence (Hyde Park). The bride was attended by Ruth Chase of Concord, N. H., sister of the bridegroom. William Brooks, brother of the bride, was best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Joseph M. Brooks, on Greenwood avenue.

ORPHAN GIRL SEEKS NEWS OF HER FATHER

"I am only a kid looking for her father," says Louise Brooks of No. 217 E. Street, Durham, N. C., to the Boston police, but the police are going to find her father.

Louise, who is sixteen, says her father, Leonard Brooks, was a dealer in Boston in 1906. In that year he went out West, and eventually settled the wishes of his father, a Boston minister, was married by a justice of the peace.

Louise never saw her father and she is dead. Her father has been told her by a aunt.

TWO VESSELS ARE ABANDONED IN GALE

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 1. (U. S. S. S.)—Two vessels, victims of the gale that swept up from the Florida peninsula, probably have sunk off the North Carolina coast, according to reports received today.

One, the Norwegian steamer Ring, 2,675 gross tons, abandoned by her crew twenty miles off the Virginia coast today, was en route to Cuba from New York. Her crew is safe aboard the Norwegian steamer Draven, bound for Charleston.

The four-masted schooner Perry Sizer of Gloucester, Ct., 1,202 tons, was abandoned by her crew off Beaufort, N. C., and the men taken ashore in a heavy sea by life savers. They were landed at Fort Macon.

CONCORD DEACONESS HOSPITAL TO CLOSE

at Rye Beach Home

The hundred and fifty disabled veterans of the World War had one and the same thing in mind today when they journeyed for the automobile to Rye Beach, where they were the guests of Lieutenant-Governor Alvan T. Curley.

At Curley's home they enjoyed a lunch dinner, including plenty of steak from a prime herd of Chateaus, and a special entertainment.

This is the fourth annual outing of the veterans which Curley has been planning to send Curley's message of sympathy to the veterans.

"Fine day for the trip," he said, "and I hope it will be a very successful one."

IMOGENE LEADS CHEERING FOR TINNEY

London, Oct. 1. (Universal Cable)—Theatrical folks of London turned out to witness the first appearance of Patsy Tinney at a concert at the Metropolitan Hotel "Hippodrome" theatre. Imogene Wilson, was among those present.

They were unusually receptive, Imogene leading to her feet to applaud the appearance. Tinney has only been engaged for the current week, however, and it is doubtful if the engagement will be continued.

He expressed the belief that the ship, built here for the United States Navy, would arrive at her destination the night of October 10, or early the next day, depending on winds and weather conditions.

WOMAN DIES IN LODGING HOUSE; COMPANION HELD

Mrs. Ella Du Chene, thirty years old, of No. 523 Bridge street, Salem, died today in a lodging house on Liberty street, Lynn. She registered there last night with Dennis LeBlanc of No. 31 Bond street, Lynn, who is held charged with violation of the true name law and a statutory offense. They registered as "Mr. and Mrs. White." Mrs. Du Chene had three children. Her husband lives on Lynn street, Peabody. LeBlanc is married and the father of eight children. While police assume that death was due to natural causes, they have begun an investigation.

WOMAN DECIDES SHE LOVES MAN WHO SHOT HER

Leominster Barber Served a Two-Year Sentence; to Wed Now He's Free

Pitchburg, Oct. 1.—Love is a strange thing.

It took two pistol shots in the head to convince Mrs. Lillian Douglas Nutting, pretty Lowell divorcee, that she loved Lester Carrau, handsome Leominster barber.

Mrs. Nutting's love was revealed to her despite the fact that the barber fired the shots with the ostensible purpose of cutting short the divorcee's earthly span.

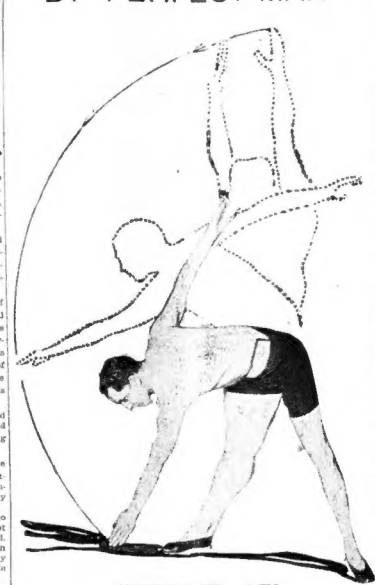

The great consuming passion of the greenswarder to the tonorial artist was born while the barber was spending his time removing the hair-suits embellishments of the inmates of the Worcester County House of Correction, whether the barber was sent for two years, following his shooting of his sweetheart.

Two days ago Carrau was released after completing his sentence and announcement of the approaching wedding was made.

As the year 1922 was dying, the barber was accompanying Mrs. Nutting home from a dance in Pitchburg. The barber was in an ugly mood.

When the barber could stand it no longer, he drew a revolver and shot his sweetheart twice in the head. The widow's skull was splintered in several places, but it was a hairy skull and the widow recovered, while the barber went to jail.

'CHICKIE APRON' FOR AMERICAN READERS

Pretty Creation Made of Rubber; Will Appeal to All Women

The day the ladies have been waiting for is here.

It isn't every day the ladies will submit to being made to wait. But they did it this time patiently, because they sensed that something good was coming.

It was and it is here.

The Boston American announces today the creation of a dainty bit of service and show—the "Chickie Tea Apron."

There are ten aprons and tea aprons of course—flimsy bits of muslin, cambric, lawn, cloth or something, bounded on three frontiers by pretty lace.

But the "Chickie Tea Apron." Here it is an apron that will hold water not only figuratively speaking but actually. It holds water because it's rubber.

The "Chickie Tea Apron" is an apron you cannot buy because it has been made especially for the Boston American and Boston American readers, not only with an eye to utility, but with beauty in view.

In consequence it can be worn over your best gown without detracting from the gown one iota.

This new bit of feminine finery which every woman will want combines service with "dress-up" and you'll get a thrill out of being the first woman in your neighborhood to wear one.

Tomorrow the "Chickie Tea Apron" will be described fully and you'll be told how you can get one.

THE DAYLIGHT CLOTHING STORE OF NEW ENGLAND

Did you walk to work today? Ah—thought you didn't! It's easier to postpone it until tomorrow.

Take a hike somewhere, though, every day, in connection with your daily health program that will become a natural habit in a short time.

If your muscles aren't too sore, you might try a second exercise today. With feet apart, reach upward—stretch all muscles. Now turning only the upper part of the body, pivoting at the waist and with feet still in position on the floor and knees stiff, sweep down and sideways to the right; until the left hand touches the floor to the side and rear of your right foot.

Keep the head up and hands about a foot apart. Then straighten up and repeat on the left side. Do this half a dozen times each day as the second exercise in the cycle of six that will be illustrated—and which you have. Next comes breakfast.

Leonard St. Leo, perfect man, is a firm believer in fruit, a cereal, an egg dish, toast or muffins and coffee. He bars meat at breakfast and declares that a heavy breakfast will do more to keep a man out of condition than all the exercise will do to keep him in.

St. Leo does not walk to work every day; he walks to work five days a week, until evening. But he does walk—anywhere from five to ten miles, according to how he feels. Then he may ride horseback or go sailing.

But you can't do these last two things on a week day if you're a business man. But you can walk to work.

More tomorrow.

WASHINGTON ALL SET TO CELEBRATE BASEBALL VICTORY

JOHN HARRISON THE MAN OF THE HOUR

By GEORGE HARRY

Washington, Oct. 1.—This town is crazy—just plain, plumb baseball crazy.

For nearly a quarter of a century, twenty-three years to be exact, chief ballplayers of the United States 20, pennant Club, members of half a dozen Cabinets, Senators whose names have been forgotten and the myriad, underground government clerks, who make up the National Capital, have been showing their quarters, halves and dollars through the sweat at an American League ball park, hoping to see a Washington team that could do something like sides get linked.

And now they've got a pennant winner. And a world's series!

At last Washington is known for something else besides President, monuments, scandals and income taxes, politicians and puns.

There is a Santa Claus after all. And he has come to this town.

The town is crazy.

If Bucky Harris, the 27-year-old manager of Washington's first pennant winner, succeeds in outwitting John McCreary and winning the world's series, they might just as well transfer the National Capital to Kokomo, Ind., for Washington will not be able to function as a regular National Capital for years to come.

BIGGER MAN THAN PRESIDENT

No president, no princely potentate, no king, no fractional-fractional minister has ever been received with more acrimony than Bucky Harris and his baseball team are going to be received when they arrive here, in the day to day of the series.

It is possible exaggeration, but it is true.

Pennsylvania avenue, which has reverberated to the great parades in American history, which has seen Grant's men home from the war, the inaugural parade of all the Presidents and the classic military and naval processions of the nation, will at last witness a football parade.

And to the reviewing stand, just as for other great processions, will be the President of the United States to bid welcome to the homecoming.

The cavalry from Fort Myer, across the Potomac, is going to turn over. At the head of the procession will be twelve beautiful "daughters of Washington," society, mounted on twelve white chargers.

And there will be scarlet-coated hussars from the post clubs. And automobiles. Behind these long ranks of machines on foot will follow. That's what the national capital thinks of winning a baseball pennant.

BIG CAR FOR JOHN HARRISON

They're going to give Walter Johnson, the veteran pitcher of the Nationals, a limousine, raised by popular subscription. The members of Cabinet officers and the dimes of clerks in the government departments want to buy that machine. Harris and the rest are going to get their turn.

Rain or shine will make no difference in the size of the crowd that will see the first game of the world's series next Saturday. Officers of the club already have been swamped with applications for tickets.

The park is not large and there will be difficulty in finding enough machines for all those who are attending. But Washington doesn't care. It has a pennant with age after twenty-three years.

Chicago Series Starts

Chicago, Oct. 1.—The White Sox and Cubs start their annual city series battle at the Cubs' park today, with the odds slightly favoring the American League. The teams will engage in six games.

FIGHT ON FIELD AND HARMONY AS CLUB SECRET OF SENATORS

AT LAST FIRST IN AMERICAN LEAGUE PENNANT RACE

On Harris Field, the Senators' new home, the manager of the team that has just won the American League pennant.

SENATORS HAD DIFFICULT TIME WINNING FLAG

Washington has been represented in the American League since the organization of the younger circuit previous to that it had a team in the Union Association in 1884, in the American Association in 1894 and 1901, and it was also represented for twelve years in the National League. It is all the time up to the present year no Washington team has finished a season at the top of its league.

Since 1901, the first year it was represented in the American League, the best that Washington could do was to finish in second place twice before the Senators made their great showing this year. In twenty-four years the Senators have been in the first division only eight times. They finished second in the Red Sox in 1912 and second in the Athletics in 1913. In 1914 they finished their campaign in third place.

The Senators have finished in last place four times. They have been seventh seven times, they have been home sixth four times and fifth once.

The record of the Washington club in the National and American Leagues follows:

SENATORS RETURN TO FORM

JOE BECKETT WOULD DO A COMEBACK

By HARRY R. FLOYD

London, Oct. 1.—Joe Beckett, one of the British heavyweight boxers, with the privilege that goes with the title of gracefully failing on his knees before foreign fighters, chiefly one George Carpentier from day before, wants to "come back."

Not that Joe was ever "down" as a boxer, according to the flow of boxing experts, but Joe's proud boast is "I didn't defeat all the British heavyweights and retire with the title."

Joe's chief incentive for wanting to re-enter the ring is that he is getting shortly to become a father. He fears his wife will be the respect of his child unless he can better his rather inferior record already on the books.

Furthermore, Joe believes he has found the secret of success—rather, the reason of his failure as a boxer.

"In my experience I was trained too fine, and became stale in my technique," he claims.

"For the Carpentier affair, Joe doesn't call it a fight. I started boxing training seven weeks ahead of time and after three weeks was asked to take a rest. I was over-eaten and went on with my work, and this was the cause of my defeat. I am quite candid about it and a wise man from my experience."

Not only that, but Beckett thinks he didn't make enough noise for himself when he was in the "game."

"A successful champion must be a big noise, otherwise nobody believes he is a champion," claims Joe.

"While I was champion of England I did not think it wise to blow my own trumpet, and personally I don't think that is an Englishman's way. Boxes of other nationalities are much more successful on that point."

Despite Joe's widely heralded desire to "come back," the promoters are not falling over themselves to reach the door of his seaside cottage at Wokingham, where he lives.

One optimistic promoter did make an offer of $1,000 for Beckett's next fight. For his last fight with Carpentier, Beckett received something like $15,000.

He doesn't think a former champion should be forced to start at the bottom again. Promoters and Joe himself don't think the idea of Joe starting at the top. Hence he may not start.

6 BOARDSMEN ARE LOST TO CREW AT WISCONSIN

Faced with the knotty problem of replacing six of the eight members of his varsity crew before the big race at Poughkeepsie next June, Coach "Red" Vail is watching with an appraising eye at every likely looking athlete who enters the gymnasium at the University of Wisconsin this fall.

The caps left vacant in the Badger crew of 1924 were made by the loss of Charles Schweg, Strobe Johnson and Jones Phibbs, Benton and Jones, who have finished their collegiate work and will no longer be eligible for competition. That leaves only Techmeyer and Sly of the great crew which surprised the rowing critics last June when it outdistanced the crack crews of the East and finished second only to the Washington oarsmen.

That crew, however, consisted of a band of men who had from three to four years of rowing under Coach Vail and now he must fall back upon the numbers of last year's freshman crew, together with any likely candidates who may be unearthed from among the upper classes who respond to Vail's call. It will be a hard task to replace these six veterans, but many at Wisconsin are confident that Vail will be equal to it.

"Rowing is very much like music," declared Vail in a recent interview. "Practice makes perfect, and the longer a man trains and practices rowing, the better he becomes. Rowing is difficult to learn. The ideal man for the crew should be about six feet tall and weigh from 175 to 190 pounds. He must be in perfect physical condition all the time, and must cultivate endurance. The fellow who can stand the long, hard practice and who will train consistently is hard to find, but those who come through are real men, and that is what I am looking for now."

61 UNION FRESHMEN OUT FOR FOOTBALL TEAM

Rehensetter, Oct. 1.—Harold J. Winters, coach, has sixty-one freshmen candidates from whom he may select the freshmen football team for Union College this fall. This is the largest freshmen squad in the history of the college.

TUFTS TO TAKE ON AGGIES SATURDAY

The Tufts College eleven, with Coach Eddie Casey at the helm, is out to win a little of the football glory Saturday when the Connecticut Aggies line their forces against the Jumbos at Tufts Oval. It's the first game of the season for the Medford aggregation and the second for the victors.

That the Connecticut team is strong has been proven as a result of their win over the Mass. Aggies last Saturday. Tufts opened with the same team last season and had their troubles scoring a 14 to 0 victory.

Jack Wilson at center will prove a hard man to pass on the line. The remaining members of the first line defense are well versed in the fundamentals of the game.

Coach Casey has spent considerable time putting together a backfield worthy of the name. Finch, Perry and Reed, have shown to an advantage and appear as the logical men to start.

The game will be called at 3:30 and a large crowd is expected.

The visiting eleven is much stronger than the team that bowed to Tufts last season. Coach Casey has been working diligently with the Tufts candidates.

JOHNSON'S MOTHER TO SEE HIM TWIRL OPENER

Washington, Oct. 1.—All the way from Coffeyville, Kansas, the proud mother in the whole land has come to the Capital for the great moment of her life—to see her son, the idol of all fans, pitch the first big league game of baseball she ever saw.

When the crowd goes crazy next Saturday afternoon, as Walter Johnson steps into the box against the New York Giants, none will have exactly the thrill of one woman in the stands, Mrs. Frank E. Johnson, his mother.

MIKE MCGUIRE ORDERED TO MEET TUNNEY FIRST

New York, Oct. 1.—Mike McGuire, the light heavyweight champion, must meet Gene Tunney in his first title match in the States if he applies for a license, the State Athletic Commission declared after Tunney had appeared with his manager, Billy Gussion, and poured the necessary forfeit fees to bind such a match.

The proposed Berlebach-McGuire match, tentatively scheduled for Madison Square Garden some time in November, will have to await a McGuire-Tunney match in the event McGuire applies for a license here.

Horse Racing at North Randall

The historic North Randall race track at Cleveland, which for sixteen years has been the home of Grand Circuit harness horse racing, will be the scene of summer horse races as well if present plans go through.

How to Get Tickets for the Big Game

Applications for tickets to the third, fourth and fifth games of the world's series, scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at the Polo Grounds, are being received by mail only at the office of the New York Giants, No. 15 West Forty-fourth street.

Applications must be accompanied by certified check or money order.

Those reserved seats are in the lower stand only and are sold at the rate of $15.00 for the block of tickets for the three games.

No tickets are sold for single games under the rules which govern all world's series.

BETTING LIGHT TO DATE ON BIG SERIES

New York, Oct. 1.—Broadway reports little betting on the World's Series to date.

The opinion seems to be that the prevailing odds will be even money when play is called in the opening game in Washington on Saturday.

Some professional gamblers, however, were of the opinion that the Senators should be 5 to 3 favorites to beat the Giants for the championship.

In support of this contention, one bet of $1,800 to $1,500 on Washington was made.

Odds of 3 to 2 on Washington have been quoted by betting commission-ers that the Giants lose the first game if Walter Johnson pitches.

BOSTON TO KEEP UNITED STATES IN PRO HOCKEY CIRCLES

HUB GETS SEATTLE TEAM

When the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast Hockey Association threw up its franchise and New York refused to promote the pro game, Boston stepped into the breach and kept the United States in the running for the world's professional hockey title.

As a result the Hub will be represented by a club in the National Hockey Association, the Eastern Canada League, the coming season. Boston will represent the pro game in the United States. As a starter, the disbanded Seattle team will form the nucleus of the new Boston team. Art Ross, a prominent figure in Canadian hockey for 25 years, will manage the Hub outfit.

TWO MAJOR LEAGUES.
Under the reorganization scheme, two leagues will be formed. The Western National Hockey League, which will include the Vancouver and Victoria clubs of the old Pacific Coast circuit, will join the Montreal Canadiens, the Quebec Bulldogs, the Montreal Maroons and the Ottawa Senators.

Although last Spring the Arena management decided it would not enter professional hockey for the coming season, New York's refusal to promote the pro game prompted the Arena to change its mind. The arena schedule has not yet been worked out by President Adams, but the season will start in November. The arena will be open for the season, and the Hub will be the only professional hockey team in the city.

ARENA TO BE REBUILT.
The new arena will be built on the site of the old arena, which was destroyed by fire last year. The new arena will be a modern building, with a seating capacity of 10,000. The arena will be owned by the Hub, and the management will be responsible for the operation of the arena.

MARULLO AND BRITTON ON NEW YORK CARD.
New York, Oct. 1.—There is much interest in the prospect of a new hockey team in New York. The team will be managed by Marullo and Britton, who are experienced hockey men. The team will be the only professional hockey team in New York.

"Which Way?" Boys at the crossroads of life are furnished the answer to this most vital question by a new and unusual club, formed in Boston for the welfare of the individual and the community.

Boys will be boys, at work or play, but an organization like the Young Men's Co-operative Club can help to make them the kind of boys the fathers will like to think of as "builders of the future."

HOW YOUNG MINUTE MEN ARE MADE

BOYS whose exuberant energies are properly directed are any community's greatest asset; boys neglected by society and allowed to pick up their ideals and their ethics in alleys and on street corners may be a community's greatest liability.

An old and trite truth, so old and so obvious that it is a platitude!

But at last, in Boston, some concrete action in recognition of this essential fact in social economy is being taken.

And that is not a platitude, but a fact of interest and importance to manufacturers and bankers, newspaper owners and store managers, policemen and parents, and the boys themselves.

Under the direction of a far-seeing American, who bears the good name of Americo Capone, there has been formed in this city the Young Men's Co-operative Club. It does not concern itself with bromides and platitudes, but with facts in the life of a "business boy" in this great industrial city.

At present its membership is under 500, but its message is to the tens of thousands of boys working in the stores, factories and banks of Greater Boston.

The main purpose of the Co-operative Club is to enable the boys in the industrial and commercial and financial district to find themselves.

Other purposes it has, including recreation, social and athletic, but the matter of vocational guidance is the very cornerstone of its philosophy and its reason for being.

Mr. Capone is a Y. M. C. A. worker, and he conceived the idea of the Co-operative Club while engaged in organization work in the downtown district.

In that district alone more than 10,000 boys who will shortly be citizens and moulders of the public destiny march to work every morning in store and bank and factory.

In the organization which he helped to perfect Mr. Capone now remains modestly in the background.

"Leave it to the boys themselves," is his motto. Given a compass and their directions, the boys are doing very well, indeed.

In the course of the next few months an intensive drive for members will be undertaken by the Young Men's Co-operative Club.

That drive should be helped by every father with a boy in an office or a shop; every manufacturer or merchant or banker with boys upon his payroll; every broad gauged business man.

For Capone's dream, realized even in part, will cut down the amount of slipshod work. It will transmute and transfigure boys who have been tramping in a treadmill because "they are in the wrong line."

Capone's dream in reality will take idlers off the street and grumbling young men out of business. It will help every boy to find some one line in which he may express himself and in which he may have that essential to all good work—pride of craft.

The benefits to commerce and industry, if the club becomes as big as it may become, will be immediate, increasing and cumulative.

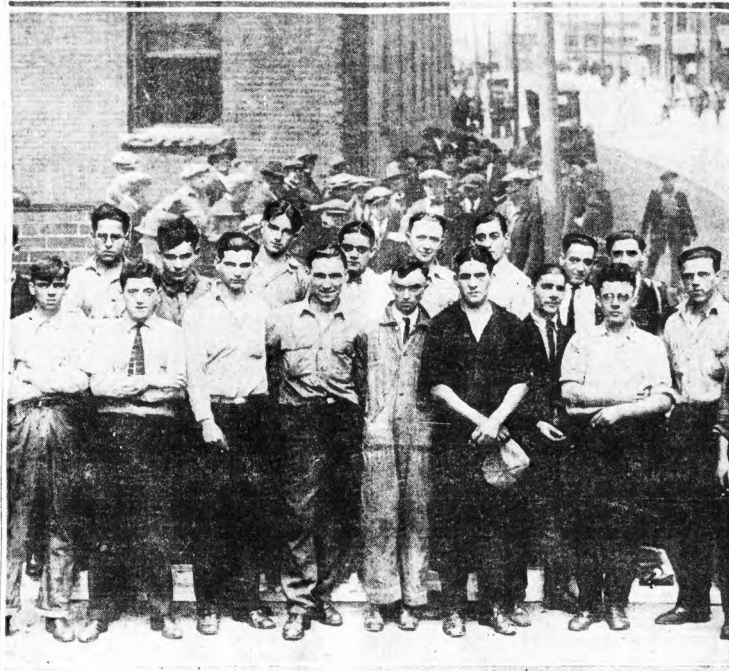

There is no problem of overhead which compares with the perpetual square peg in the round hole; the boy who can't succeed because it is not his innate wish to succeed in the business in which he finds himself.

One of the first things undertaken by the Young Men's Co-operative Club is the listing of its members according to their natural vocations.

Questionnaires are sent out, asking all sorts of information; including the degree of satisfaction of the subject with his present job.

The questionnaire ends on the following significant note: "IS THE JOB YOU HOLD NOW A STEPPING STONE TO THE POSITION YOU WISH TO HOLD TEN YEARS FROM NOW?"

Once committed to a desired vocation, the boy is directed to one of the biggest men following that

Here are the purposes of the Young Men's Co-operative Club, as outlined by Dennis Murphy, the nineteen-year-old president:

- 1.—To enable working boys to find themselves and their true vocations.
 - 2.—To encourage boys to find their spheres and then work hard and faithfully for success.
 - 3.—To discourage slipshod work in shop or office or bank, and to bring to boys of this complex age a realization that there is still opportunity for everyone who will play the game.
 - 4.—To assist boys to acquire culture and a knowledge of such arts as literature and music, as well as of such essential sciences as psychology and philosophy.
 - 5.—To provide boys with innocent amusement in the way of athletics or social relaxation at times when otherwise they might be roaming the streets and absorbing evil knowledge.
- It seems a good program. Fifty cents is the initiation fee. For extra classes charge sometimes is made.
- To an adult, it looks like the best investment of a half dollar any boy could make.

vocation in Boston. It may be a merchant or a banker or a mechanical engineer.

These audiences are private, between the master of the vocation and the neophyte. They are intimate. Even in the brief life of the club many careers have been altered and elevated by these little talks with practical men who once were boys themselves and stood at the crossroads, saying "Which way?"

Not only does the club aid the boy to find himself, it assists him along the way to full realization.

It directs him to and helps him through evening school. It will, if fifteen boys or more desire special instruction, retain an instructor at lowest possible cost, and a good one.

It provides him with courses in discussion and salesmanship, psychology, art and literature.

It looks out for his amusement in the field of sport and in social life.

The club is open to anybody employed in Boston, provided that he be between sixteen and twenty-one years of age.

During the last year at least 1,000 boys have been reached and helped. During the years ahead, unless vision be lost, tens of thousands will feel the helping touch of the organization.

Dennis Murphy, a nineteen-year-old "business man," with a clear idea of where he is going, is president of the council which governs the club. He is an assistant shipping clerk at Chandler & Company's. Other members of the council include boys from leading banks, stores and newspapers. Ernest Melvers of Dunker & Perkins, who also is nineteen, is the secretary.

Handicapped until now by lack of funds and flimsy organization, these boy executives are planning big things for the Fall and Winter.

Noonday talks by big business leaders to boys interested in certain vocations are among the things projected.

William Fortune of the National Shipyards

Bank is one of the slightly older men interested in the plans, and he is urging business men to honor these speaking invitations, even if they have to dodge others.

Edward Munn, information clerk at the First National Bank of Boston, is former president and one of the most enthusiastic adherents of the Young Men's Co-op.

He has managed to borrow the rest room of the bank for several educational meetings and to secure several noted speakers.

Distinctly, the Young Men's Co-operative is for EVERY BOY, for there is no condition of entrance except that the applicant desires to better himself mentally, morally or physically.

The initiation fee is fifty cents. Mr. Capone points out, with truth and a bit of humor, that even that may be paid in instalments.

In the drive for members which is coming the enthusiasts of this rare experiment in boy psychology and man-making should get all the help they need.

There is not a parent whose son may not benefit, if he has left school and joined the wage or salary earners.

There is not a business man who will not find it the higher and better economy to give his moral aid—and that is all that is asked—for the boys pride themselves principally on the fact that the Co-operative Club is their own.

Already some of the big banks, stores, offices and factories have given the movement what little assistance was asked.

Have they benefited?

Mr. Munn, a Co-operative boy himself, and an employee at the First National, is authority for certain statements regarding conditions at that and other banks.

More than twenty bank boys from sundry banks joined the club, and he kept track of them. In every instance but one the boys belonging went ahead just a little faster than the boys who didn't have the time. The sole exception talked with one of the club's volunteer vocational advisors and decided he did not want to pursue banking further.

He left the bank and now is making good in a big importing house, where, for that strange reason that makes "many men have many minds," he is satisfied.

Boy and bank were the gainers.

Apart from the industrial and commercial aspect of this practical and sensible work among the boys of Boston is its economic and social side.

These boys who are being helped (or not) are the future MINUTE MEN of Boston.

Upon whether they are satisfied with the life-work they adopt much depends. Not only for them but for us.

In the ranks of employed boys are captains of industry, big merchants, shrewd financiers, insurance geniuses.

Yet in the same ranks may be the bravos and confidence men of tomorrow.

Rarely is it the boy who is satisfied and actually trying to get ahead who listens to the tempter and turns first to idleness and then to crime.

The boy who is satisfied with his job and knows that he "belongs" has a future in view. He is not ready to the hand of the Fagin.

But, in this complicated industrial age, the boy who is just thrust into him of the alleys of an industry distasteful to him finds life hard and meaningless sometimes.

The life of the streets and the dimly lit cafes that still flourish call to him with allure. From idleness to outlawry is not a big step.

Of course, such boys should have the proper home and school and church influences to protect them. Of course, many don't.

Here, after much talk about the child, who is father of the man and the dictator of the future, is a chance to do something for him, and help him to do something for himself.

It is fitting that the movement should start in Boston. This city always has distinguished itself by its humanity toward the young.

Boys will be boys, at work or play, but an organization like the Young Men's Co-operative Club can help to make them the kind of boys the fathers will like to think of as "builders of the future."

If there comes your way a chance to help the organization, don't let it pass.
